

Homily for the Installation of Father Steve Arisman as Pastor of Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish, Mt. Zion, and St. Isidore Parish, Bethany
July 6, 2016

† Most Reverend Thomas John Paprocki
Bishop of Springfield in Illinois

Reverend Fathers, Deacon, my dear brothers and sisters in Christ:

The Church today celebrates the liturgical feast of St. Maria Goretti, who was murdered in 1902 by her attacker in during his unsuccessful attempt to rape her when she was only eleven years old. After she refused to give in to his sexual demands, he stabbed her to death. She forgave him before she died. When she was canonized a saint by Pope Pius XII in 1950, her murderer was present at the Mass at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

In his homily at the Mass of canonization, Pope Pius XII said, "Parents can learn from her story how to raise their God-given children in virtue, courage and holiness; they can learn to train them in the Catholic faith so that, when put to the test, God's grace will support them and they will come through undefeated, unscathed and untarnished."

Today's Gospel passage from Saint Matthew recounts Jesus calling and sending out the Twelve Apostles. In doing do, we might say that Jesus is expressing His desire for their help in proclaiming the good news of God's Kingdom, rather than simply doing this Himself. All the Gospels mention the 12 apostles and their being commissioned by Jesus to continue His mission. However, only St. Luke, in the passage we heard last Sunday, refers to the sending out of the 72. There must be a reason for this. Jesus says that the harvest is big and there are not enough people to do the necessary work. In the same manner, we are being told that the mission of Jesus is not carried forward only by priests and religious, but it is the responsibility of every believer. Through the calling and sending out of the 72 disciples in addition to the 12 apostles, we learn that the mission of Jesus is also accomplished by ordinary people doing ordinary things and being faithful to their responsibilities in the everyday lives.

Today at this Mass we mark the beginning of a new chapter in the life of Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish and Saint Isidore Parish with the Installation of your new Pastor. I am very pleased that Father Steve Arisman has accepted the call to serve as the local shepherd of the Catholic community of faith here at Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish in Mt. Zion and Saint Isidore Parish in Bethany. I am very grateful to you, Father Arisman, for your excellent ministry at Immaculate Conception Parish in Mattoon, at St. Charles Parish in Charleston, and Catholic Campus Ministry at Eastern Illinois University. I am also deeply grateful to Deacon Jim Ghiglione for having faithfully served as Pastoral Facilitator at Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish in Mt. Zion and Saint Isidore Parish, to Father Joseph Molloy, the local Dean, for his dedicated service as Priest Moderator and Parochial Administrator here Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish, and to Father John Sohm for his diligent service as Priest Moderator at Saint Isidore Parish in Bethany.

Father Arisman will serve you as pastor in this Third Millennium of Christianity, so I think it is fitting to call to mind a theme suggested by our late Holy Father, the Great Pope Saint John Paul II, in his Apostolic Letter, NOVO MILLENNIO INEUNTE, "On entering the New Millennium," which I quote as follows (nos. 30-31): "First of all, I have no hesitation in saying that all pastoral initiatives must be set in relation to holiness."

We grow in holiness by following Jesus as His disciples. Closely related to the notion of discipleship is the concept of stewardship. In the First Letter of St. Peter, he writes of stewardship in these words: "As each one has received a gift, use it to serve one another as good stewards of God's varied grace" (1 Peter 4:10).

Last September, I published my second pastoral letter, called, Ars Crescendi in Dei Gratia, Latin for "The Art of Growing in God's Grace." In it, I wrote, "The art of growing in God's grace is the key to growth in the Church. Building a culture of growth in the Church starts with inviting people to experience the love of Jesus Christ."

Over the past couple of years leading up to the publication of my pastoral letter last Fall, I have given much thought to how it is that we can begin a process of strategic planning for growth in the Church here in our diocese. The growth envisioned is far more than just a quantitative increase in the number of people or the amount of money available to our parishes and the diocese. It is also essential to ensure that we give significant attention to the qualitative growth that will guarantee sustainability for generations that follow.

In my pastoral letter, I said that we must do four things to build a vibrant community of saints:

1. Invite people to join us in prayer, especially Sunday Mass (hospitality);
2. Study the Bible and learn more about Jesus and our Catholic faith (formation);
3. Provide the sacraments as signs of hope and paths of grace to heaven (prayer); and
4. Serve those in need by practicing charity and justice (service).

The verbs in these four action items correspond to the four pillars of stewardship and discipleship that we have begun talking about in our diocese: hospitality, formation, prayer and service. We can all communicate more broadly the message of invitation.

Through prayer, discernment, and consultation from others, it has become evident that the Lord is inviting us to more fully embrace our call to discipleship out of which necessarily follows a life of stewardship.¹

Stewardship recognizes that everything we have comes from God. We are stewards whether we recognize it or not and whether we like it or not. Stewardship from God's perspective is that He has given us gifts to be used not just selfishly for ourselves, but to be shared with others. Even private property must be seen as simply holding legal title in trust for the benefit of others, not just for myself. Becoming a disciple means making an intentional decision to accept the Lord's call to follow Him and live the discipleship and stewardship way of life.

I am aware that such a plan for growth is ambitious, but it is one about which I am very optimistic, especially given my familiarity with what this diocese has to offer and the many ways in which various groups are already poised to contribute to that growth. A key group that is essential to this plan for growth is the priests of our diocese, especially our pastors. But they cannot do this alone. They need the help and cooperation of all parishioners. To be able to put into practice the mission of Jesus, we need to be part of a team supporting each other.

Our priests are at the very heart of our journey forward. As Catholics, we rely first and foremost on God's grace. This grace comes to us through the sacraments of the Church of which the priests are the ministers. In a special way, it is the priest who celebrates the Eucharist for us, feeding us with the Bread of Life, nourishing and strengthening us for this journey. Without the Eucharist, this way of life will never succeed.

Without priests, we will not have the Eucharist. Therefore, we need our priests for this journey.

I am very grateful for the fidelity with which our priests serve the diocese. They are men committed to the building up of the Kingdom and to the salvation of the souls of those in our diocese and beyond. Their example of tireless dedication is an inspiration to me and to all of us of how we are likewise called to serve the Lord as committed disciples of Jesus Christ. It is their joyful, humble example that is, I believe, one of the major factors contributing to the growth in the number of seminarians studying for the priesthood in our diocese. They too, are signs of hope and encouragement to us as we continue this journey.

I pray that all of you will work with Father Nolan in seeking to be intentional disciples of the Lord and good stewards of the gifts entrusted to us for the growth of the Church as we journey together toward our inheritance in the glory of Heaven.

Therefore, dear parishioners of Our Lady of the Holy Spirit Parish and Saint Isidore Parish, I urge you to strive for holiness, to work and pray with your new pastor. Support him, help him, pray for him, and most of all, love him as he loves you and as Christ calls us to love each other.

May God give us this grace. Amen.
